The Secret of Thanksgiving

By MARGARET AYER

traveler paced the platform of a deserted sta-

It was the evening of Thanksgiving day, and through some mischance he had missed the early train that was to take him to town and to Thanksgiving dinner.

The spirit of the day was not with him, for he had two long hours to wait, and it was bitter cold, and for some unaccountable reason the station was locked.

A flagman came to watch for a passing express train. Seeing the traveler's plight, the flagman invited him ECall on them when in to come into his shack and warm

The flagman's home was a tiny place, fitted out with the barest necesuities, but, in varied contrast to the surroundings, along one side of the wall was a rough pine bookshelf containing well thumbed volumes of all that the world holds greatest in literature, philosophy and science.

After a short conversation the traveler marvelled to find that the flag-Kline and the Public Library man possessed a fund of knowledge on most subjects, and of the classics in particular, which would have put many a college professor to blush.

"Why don't you leave this solitary life of hardship and come to the town, where with your learning you will soon be one of the great lights?" asked the traveler, wondering at the flagman's tack of ambition. "Have consisted by songs and you no desire to better yourself?"

"No," replied the other, "I am content with my lot. I have outdoor e Umbrella factories do not work, indoor quiet with the companup business when the sun is fonship of my books; I make enough to live on and I want nothing more. I should be out of place among your city folk. My friends are here in the village. What more should I want?"

For hours the traveler argued with the flagman, and his home-bound train passed unheeded. He was interested in trying to save this great intellect for the world, as he termed it, and trying to awaken some spark of ambition in the man, but the flagman refused to be disconcerted.

"Are you satisfied with your position in life-are you contented?" he ent rate is provided for. asked the traveler.

"Of course not," answered the trav-"I should consider myself lacking in spirit if I were satisfied and did not want to rise higher in life. I shall never be contented until I reach the top of the tree."

Then, said the flagman, "you are not really thankful for the blessings that you possess, but merely look upon them as stepping-stones to other things. I am grateful for what little costumes seen. A fine spirit it is, too, for it means a chance for development for the race, but it also includes the spirit of discontent

There is about us a perfect contagion of dissatisfaction which is necessary to progress, but some of us are running a fair risk of being awamped in the discontent and losing the high aims that prompted it, all because our aims and demands cannot be gratified at ouce.

There are few of us who, like the Tagman, are content with our place in life. Most of us are striving for more blessings of one kind or another, spiritual, mental and worldly.

Of the nominations reported lavorably by committees to the senate for confirmation, but one remains to be acted upon-that of Jobn G. Capers to be commissioner of faternal revenue. An attempt was made to secure the confirmation of Capers a few days ago, but objection was made and it went over until after the holidays. New Years day is generally celebrated in some sections and the first of the month is taken by many miners as the day on which to do their months trading. But the men were in the spirit of the thing and went into the mines in full force in order to emphasise the fact that they were not influenced by nor interested in the alleg ed union movement.

The total to be paid by the company in settlement of all claims amounts to $40,000.

The Knock-out Blow.

The blow which knocked out Corbets was a revelation to the prize fighters. From the earliest days of the ring the knock-out blow was almed for the jaw, the temple or the jugular vein. Stomach punches were thrown in to worry and weary the fighter, but if a scientific man' had told one of the old tighters that the most valuerable spot was the region of the stamach, he'd have laughed at him for an ignoramus. Dr. Pierce is bringing house to the public a parallel fact; that the stomach is the most vulnerable organ out of the price ring as well as in it. We protect bur heads, throats, feet and lungs, but the stamach ove are utterly indifferent to, until disease finds the solar plexus and knocks us out. Make your stomach sound and strong by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and you protect vourself in your most sulnerable stot. "Golden Medical Discovery" cures "weak stomach," indigestion, or dyspepsia, terpid liver, bad, thin and imthe stomach, he'd have laughed at him dyspepsia, torpid liver, bad, thin and impure blood and other diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition.

The "Golden Mccleal Discovery " has a specific curative effect upon all mucous surfaces and hence cures estarrh, no matter where located or what stage it may have reached. In Nasal Catarrh it is well to cleanse the passages with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy find while using the "Discovery "as a constitutional remady. Why the "Golden Medical Discovery" cures catarrhal diseases, as of the stomach, bowels, biadder and other pelvic organs will be plain to you if you will read a booklet of extracts from the writings of eminent medical authorities, entheir curative properties. It is mailed free on request. Address Dr. R.V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. This booklet gives all the ingredients entering into Dr. Pierse's medicines from which it will be seen that
